LORD MILNER FORMERLY ENGAGED AS JOURNALIST

(By Floyd MacGriff, International News Service Staff Correspondent.)
London, July 18.—Lord Milner, secretary of state for war, is one of the few British officials who has had newspaper training. After graduation from Oxford he joined Lord Morley's staff on the Pall Mall Gazette, an afternoon daily newspaper.

Lord Milner was born at Bonn, Germany, in 1854. He was the only son of Dr. Charles Milner, who moved to Germany to take up the practice of medicine. His father was a daughter of Gov. Ready, of the Isle of Man. Lord Milner attended the public schools at Wurttemberg, and when 16 came to London, his father having returned to his native land.

Although admitted to the bar, Milner did not practice, becoming a journalist instead. In 1885 he stood for election to parliament, but was defeated. When Lord Goschen became chancellor of the exchequer in 1887 Lord Milner acted as his private secretary. He continued in civil service, going to Egypt to take charge of the finances under Lord Cromer.

Subsequently he was sent to South Africa by Chamberlain as governor of Cape Colony. He remained in that country until 1905, when he received the peerage and the freedom of the city of London. After his return to England he did not fill a large place in the public eye for some years. He declined the offer of the colonial secretaryship offered by Mr. Balfour in 1915. He was known as a conservative.

When the Lloyd George ministry was formed in 1916 Lord Milner became a member of the war cabinet. In April, 1918, he succeeded Lord Derby as secretary for war.

SWISS PROTEST GAS ATTACKS ON BORDER

Berne.—The Swiss government may make representations to Germany following the death of a number of children in villages near the frontier, which physicians declare is due to Hun gas. Swiss customs officials and persons living near the frontier have to wear gas masks. The Swiss press is clamoring for immediate action.

RED CROSS WORKER PROPOSES TO RAISE PIGS

Knoxville, July 18.—"Pigs is pigs," was decided upon some time ago, when Ellis Parker Butler announced that the phenomenon was a fact. But the latest is "Pigs is personalities and pets." One quite prominent society woman of Knoxville has gone actively into war work and thinks that after she spent her days at the Red Cross and other places where war work is carried on, she can do nothing better than to raise a few porkers for Uncle Sam on this side. She has a fine healthy lot of pigs and was most proud of them until one seemed to feel a little indisposed and to be ailing. This infant pig immediately enlisted her sympathies and she announced that nothing was too good for friend pig, so she prepared it a bed in her room and took more care of it than if it had been a star boarder. The bed might seem enough war service for one pig, but there is still more. The pig was delicate and particular about the way its food was administered so she very carefully prepared milk for it in a bottle and saw that it was fed in all the style that was at her command.

BIG LEAGUE RACES ALREADY HALF OVER

Interesting Deductions From Various Clubs' Showings Pile Up the Runs.

New York, July 18.—With the half-way mark reached in the major league bases ball season some interesting deductions are possible from the records of the various clubs composing the National and American leagues. According to semi-official figures compiled up to July 6, the Chicago Nationals are leading the senior organization in the total number of runs made, with 286; are second in hits and third in the number of runners stranded on the bases. The New York Giants, holding second place in the league race, had amassed a total number of runs four less than the Cubs, and were third in hits.

The Philadelphia team held first place in hitting, the total being 622 for 67 games. The Phillies offset this laudable stick work, however, by piling up 113 errors, the second largest number for the season to date in the National league. St. Louis, in last place, went the Moranites the limit in this respect, with an aggregate of 131. The Cardinals were second in men left on bases, no less than 454 batters having been marooned between first and third. Boston was the most unfortunate in this respect, having 464 stranded. Opposing teams made more runs against St. Louis than any other club, with Cincinnati the next easiest combination to score against, and Boston third.

In the American league the New York team has scored the greatest number of 133 miscues being charged against them. Cleveland comes second in this respect, and the tail-end Athletics are third with 121. Cleveland had 568 players left on the bases, and Washington 642. St. Louis was third with 503. More runs were scored against Detroit than any of the other American league teams, the seven opposing clubs amassing a total of 327 at the expense of the Tigers. The Athletics yielded 286, and the Cleveland combination 281.
